You need to pay for both your monthly fee and the outstanding negative balance up to every month's 20th day. The monthly fee is subject for payment even if you haven't used the service, for example, when you've been out of the country. If you have done enough prepayment before the payment date and it covers your monthly fee or more, then fee and negative balance for the current month are charged from the prepayment. You can continue using Ucom services by just recharging your account, when you've exhausted the monthly fee and credit limit amounts. If you have not consumed the whole recharged amount, your current debts can be automatically offset in the end of the month, when recharging has been made, without any prior notification. If you have not exhausted your monthly fee, the unused part of the monthly fee will be transferred to the following month, but it cannot exceed double amount of your monthly fee. You will be requested to pay the monthly fee for Dolphin, Panther, Butterfly, Eagle or Unique monthly subscription, even if you have not used the service, for example, if you were abroad. You are considered to be an Ucom subscriber until you terminate your Subscription Agreement.

If you are a Dolphin, Panther, Butterfly, Eagle or Unique subscriber with several lines, by the 20th of each month you will be requested to pay the monthly fees for all the lines and the negative balance for the previous month (if any). Should you fail to pay the common bill in full by mentioned deadline; all lines will be temporarily deactivated. All activated lines have the same credit limit, which can be less for all the lines you have upon your request. In this case if one of your lines consumed the limit all the other lines will temporarily deactivate.
